

Senior Laboratory Animal Technician (Transgenic Breeding Barrier)

The University of New Mexico in Albuquerque is seeking a qualified person to manage the daily operations of the Transgenic Breeding Barrier. Under general supervision this position will provide routine husbandry care in accordance with established SOP's and protocols. The Sr. Lab Animal Tech managing the Tg Breeding Barrier will work closely with the researchers in managing the colonies to provide inventory needed for their projects. This will entail accurate and detailed record keeping, excellent communication and organizational skills, and the ability to ear tag and tail snip for proper identification of animals. Also, provides routine veterinary care including daily observation of animals to assess their health and welfare, treatments as prescribed and participation in projects as needed.

This is a full-time benefits eligible position.

The University of New Mexico (UNM) provides a diversified package of benefits including medical, dental, vision, and life insurance. In addition, UNM offers educational benefits through the tuition remission and dependent education programs.

Albuquerque, New Mexico is a diverse community where the sun shines 310 days out of the year. If you enjoy temperate weather, great mountain sports, and the best green chili around, then cut and paste the following link and apply now!

unmjobs.unm.edu/applicants/Central?quickFind=57929